Effective February 4th, 2020, VirtualKeypad.com is updated to Version 2.22.0. The following features are available:

Features

Automatically Use Next Available Number

In Admin, VirtualKeypad.com now automatically assigns the next available number in all selected systems when creating or editing a user. This feature prevents existing user data from being inadvertently overwritten in panels when the same number is applied across multiple systems. This feature also simplifies user management and eliminates the need to manually check numbers before applying changes to users. If necessary, you can view all user numbers with user reports.

User Improvements

In Admin, VirtualKeypad.com now allows user information to be edited without requiring personnel to enter a user code. For example, when an HR specialist needs to change an employee's name, they are no longer required to enter the user's code to push updated information to systems.
